THE ANNUAL PINEY FORK CAMP-MEETING

WILL COMMENCE SEPTEMBER 10, 1906.

For Over Eighty Years People Have Met and Worshipped at Old Piney Fork Camp Ground

The Piney Fork annual camp meeting will begin Monday night, September 10, where there has been camp meeting held for over eighty years with the exception of two years. It will be an old time camp-meeting conducted by Rev. J. L. Hudgins, of Union City, Tenn.

Rev. Hudgins is a strong Gospel preacher and preaches with power.

The first annual camp-meeting which has made this church so famous was held in May 1812. The services were held under an arbor on the beautiful knoll now occupied by the camp ground, and the people who attended the meetings lodged "in camps" or rude huts, hastily constructed of round poles, with clap-board roofs. The ministers present were Messrs. Finis Ewing, Alexander Chapman and Wm. Harris.

The following is a list of the original members who perfected the organization of this grand old church: John Travis, Rebecca Travis, James Travis, Rachel Travis, John Wheeler, Susan Wheeler, James Clinton, Ann Clinton, Rev. Wm. Henry, Mary Ann Henry, Mrs. McGough,

The pastors of this historic church have been pre-eminently self-made men, as they were nearly all, in early life, without the advantages of a liberal education or any large degree of social culture. They have been chiefly poor men, obliged to assist in supporting themselves in their early ministry by their daily secular labors. Rev. Finis Ewing was the first pastor of Piney Fork church. He was born 1773 and died 1841.

The camp meeting begun in 1812, and have continued until the present time with two exceptions. It is reasonable to presume that more annual camp-meetings have been held on Piney Fork hill than any other place in the world, those meetings having commenced at this place soon after their origin and continued almost successively down to the present time. Thousands have been converted on this sacred hill, and the shouts of the redeemed have seemed to make the dome of heaven ring. During the earliest meetings it was not uncommon for them to have one hundred professions of faith at a meeting.

Pierce's New Building

The beautiful suburban lot which Judge Pierce purchased of A. J. Pickens on North Main street road is being improved with a handsome two story and basement brick residence which will be ready for occupancy in sixty days. A. C. Melton has the contract for the brick work, and Forest Heath is contractor for the wood work. The first story is to be finished in hard wood and it will be elegant in all its appointments. The basement will contain the furnace for the steam heating outfit and also the cellar for keeping all kinds of supplies in winter. The house when completed will be one of the most attractive in the vicinity and will represent a cost of some three or four thousand dollars.

Murrah! for Smithland.

The canning factory here at Smithland was first put in operation last week. The tomato crop is beginning to get ripe and farmers are hauling it to the factory. quite a number of farmers signed contracts to raise a crop of tomatoes and prospects now are bright for them to receive a handsome profit for their work. The greatest difficulty the managers have met has been to interest the farmers in raising the tomatoes. Once the farmers are convinced that the factory means business and that there is a profit in raising the crop then it seems there can be no doubt but it will be a source of profit to farmers and other people in and near Smithland.—Smithland Echo.

A New One.

One of the most ingenious and useful household articles we have seen in many years is called the Economy Scrubbing Brush which is being sold now by agents in the city and county. It is a labor saver which any housewife will be glad to own and use after seeing it tried. It is simple, easily kept clean and is really a necessity.

Strawberries in August

Mr. K. E. Canuan brought to the Press office Friday some fine strawberries as it has ever been our pleasure to see at any season. What's remarkable is the season of the year. They matured August 17. Probably ere long some one will invent a monthly strawberry.

BOY ATTACKED BY LEOPARD

A Little Son of Charley Crider Seriously Injured at Fredonia

One of the most shocking accidents which ever occurred in this section took place at Fredonia last Sunday at the M. L. Clark's shows.

A little son of Charley Crider, who resides there, was attacked by a leopard which stuck its claws into his forehead and almost tore his scalp off before assistance arrived, notwithstanding the serious nature of the hurt we learn, as we go to press, that he is doing nicely.

To Clean Graveyard

All those who have friends and loved ones buried at Piney Fork cemetery are requested to come or send some one Tuesday, Sept. 4th to assist in cleaning off the graves and entire enclosure. Bring tools and dinner and come prepared to put in the day's work in loving remembrance of those who sleep in the silent city of the dead.

Disagree in Feud Case

Beattyville, Ky., Aug. 17.—The jury in the case of B. F. French, John Smith, charged jointly with the assassination of James B. Maroum at Jackson, during the Breathitt county feud troubles three years ago, have disagreed and will be discharged early tomorrow. Another trial of the case will likely be held in October.

Will Not Enter Race for Governor

The Honorable O. M. James made the statement to the representative of the Press Tuesday afternoon that he would not enter the gubernatorial race this year.

This announcement will be received with much regret by Mr. James' many friends, all of whom delight to honor him, and they had hoped to add new laurels and honors to his name.

Further than the simple statement of his final decision Mr. James had nothing to say, except to thank his friends for their interest and support.

TWO THOUSAND ESTIMATED DEAD

GREAT AS THAT SUSTAINED IN SAN FRANCISCO

Refugees Tells of Heart Rending Scenes—Camping Out on Hills

GOVERNMENT TO THE RELIEF.

Valparaiso, Chile, Aug. 19.—There continues a confusion of statements as to the magnitude of the disaster to Valparaiso caused by the earthquake shocks which began on Thursday, Aug. 16, and continued at frequent intervals throughout that and the next two days.

Dispatches from Valparaiso to The Associated Press, received last evening, state that a moderate estimate of the fatalities is 2000, and that the property loss may be as high as $250,000,000, which latter is as great as the loss sustained by San Francisco in consequence of the earthquake and fire which devastated that city last April.

A refugee, who has arrived at Santiago, places the known dead at 100 and other messages indicate that the first reports of damage and casualties were greatly exaggerated. Dispatches to the State Department at Washington, place the fatalities at about 500. These conflicting statements cannot at this time be adjusted. It is evident that even yet, confusion and panic prevail at Valparaiso, and until order is restored it will be impossible to learn with accuracy the loss to life and property. The dwellings in the city have practically been abandoned and the people are existing as best they can in the plazas and streets of the city and the hills adjacent to it, without shelter from storm and sun, and with famine confronting them. Food is already scarce and high, water for drinking purposes is lacking, and disease is feared. The government is doing all it can to bring relief. The crippling of railroads leading to Valparaiso constitutes a serious factor in the situation, as for an indefinite period relief supplies can only be obtained through other means of transportation, the seaboard affording the best of these.

At Santiago many of the best public and private buildings were wrecked. The loss of life there was augmented by the panic which seized the people, many of whom threw themselves from the balconies of their homes. The destructive force of the earthquake was experienced over a large extent of the country, many towns sustaining serious damage.

After spending the summer with her sister Mrs. A. H. Cardin, Mrs. Zelma Moore Murphy accompanied by her two little sons left Monday, for her home in Sherman Texas, Mrs. Murphy has achieved a distinct success in her reading of popular novels. By special request she has appeared before the progressive Reading Club of Kansas City, three consecutive years; first presenting Sylvia, the next year Hesper, and this past year Sandy, and has in preparation for the coming year Cranford, Mrs. Murphy's manner on the platform is natural and her expression has force without rant, says our Kansas City exchange.

Show Fails to Appear.

The show failed to come. Everybody knows that for everybody was here Monday to attend. The trouble occurred at Uniontown where a disagreement arose between the partners and this, coupled with a dull season, (caused on account of so much rain) made money quite scarce with them. They were compelled to disband and sell off some of their stock. They also failed to reach Clay. At the time of the collapse it was stated that they owed the I. C. R. R. Co. over $1000.

Vicious Dogs

An excellent ruling has recently been made by the postoffice authorities at Washington, for which they are entitled to the united thanks of the mail carriers. It has been ruled that where a man keeps a vicious dog about the premises that makes it dangerous for a carrier to deliver mail, such delivery may be omitted. Unless the carrier is willing to risk danger of the dog, the owner of the vicious brute will have to depend upon himself in getting his mail at the postoffice.

M. E. CHURCH SOCIAL

Given by the Ladies' Aid Society Last Wednesday Evening, Aug. 15.

Last Wednesday evening the Ladies' Aid of the M. E. church gave a social function at the church which was attended by some 200 and odd people, mostly members of that flourishing congregation. Refreshments were served and some fine singing rendered, in the good old way, several short speeches were made and everything was done to add to the good will and pleasure of the meeting. The little social amenities tend to cement the ties of brotherly love and are of much general benefit to the entire flock and the example should be followed by others, and often.

A Good School

Mattoon, Aug. 12.—One month of our school is nearly expired. We are having a good school—a religious school as well as educational. We have got one of the best schools in the county. Miss Bertha Moore is an excellent teacher.

Ordered Re-established

We learn that the Fourth Assistant Postmaster General has recommended that the postoffice at Fredonia be reinstated and the one at Kelsey abolished. We understand all the citizens of Kelsey will get their mail on the rural free delivery.

For Rent.

At View, Ky. for the year 1907, one dwelling house, one store house, blacksmith shop and stock scales. Will rent separately or all together. Good stand for store and shop; for further information write me at View, Ky. I also have seven Jersey cows and young calves for sale, they are full blooded and all in good shape and giving lots of good rich milk. Will sell cheap rather than winter them. A. H. CARDIN, View, Ky.

CALL MEETING OF THE FARMERS CLUB

TO BE HELD IN MARION THURSDAY, AUGUST 30, 1906

A. H. Cardin, of View, Will Give an Interesting Talk on Tobacco

ALL FARMERS ARE URGED TO ATTEND

Editor of the Press:—Will you be kind enough to help me, through your paper, to urge the farmers of this county to come to Marion on the 30th day of this month to the Farmers Club meeting called by our president, Frank Conger.

Every intelligent farmer should feel it his duty to attend this meeting and give his encouragement and assistance to the move. Farmers all over the country are now organized and pooling the products of their farms to enable them to get the best prices the market affords.

Now you may think you will lay low and reap the benefits of your brother farmer's work in trying to organize the entire community; if you do you will come up missing.

Now let me beg of you to be men who are more than willing to do you part and come every one of you to Mr. Conger's call for a call meeting. It is for the purpose of making arrangements for a county institute to be held by the State board of agriculture, ordered and paid for by the State. These institutes are doing a great deal of good for the farmers and every farmer should attend them and gain valuable information.

You may tug and toil the remainder of your life to make buckle and tongue meet, but you will never do it until you organize and learn what to do with your crops.

After you make and sell them, the men who buy and handle the products of your farm are all organized and competition in what you have to sell is a thing of the past and will continue so until you are thoroughly organized. So every body attend the Farmers Club meeting to be held in Marion on the last day of this month.

I see there is a disposition on the part of some of the farmers to cut their tobacco early this year because the season has been good and the tobacco has grown to be very large. If you put your knife in your tobacco until all of the sap has ripened out of it you will make a great mistake. You have the size now let it wet ripe and you will have the best selling crop you have had for ten years.

If you have no more rain for some time the rich spots may field fire a little; let it alone, better have a little field fire than to cut it green. If you want the best selling tobacco you must cut ripe tobacco; you must not let it sun burn or get wet after it is cut or house burn, the buyers will look close for house-burn this year.

After you cut and yellow your tobacco you will then fire slowly for two or three weeks. To get a good price you must have body color and flavor.

Come every one to the Club meeting and I will give you a good talk on the tobacco question.

Respectfully,

A. H. CARDIN.

Mr. Frank Conger asked me to write your paper and urge the farmers out to his call; did not have time to correct properly so do that for me and oblige Yours truly,

A. H. CARDIN.

PINEY FORK CHURCH.

Mrs. Zuchariah Bivens and Mrs. Wm. Leach.

For a year or two this small society met for occasional preaching at the residence of Mr. John Wheeler who lived four miles Southeast of Marion, opposite the place where Rev. Frank Paris now lives. In 1812 the organization was completed by Rev. Finis Ewing at a school house in the neighborhood of Mr. Wheeler's home. Being situated between the forks of Piney Creek, it was called the Piney Fork church.

John Travis donated a tract of land to the church of about thirteen acres. Afterward George Green donated three acres. A log church house was at once erected upon it, situated in what is now the cemetery, about one hundred yards from the western boundary of the cemetery. A second log church was built in 1843. The present church, a brick, of which the picture represents, was erected in 1867 at a cost of $3000. The brick was burned on the ground and the building erected by L. M. Hill and W. C. Turk. The following were the building committee: Jas. Ordway, L. M. Hill, T. M. Butler and W. B. Crider. Two large sheds have been built; the present one is 60x80 feet, and has a seating capacity of about 2000.

many States in the Union, spring from this noted church. Among them are the Rev. Geo. W. Hughey, presiding elder of the M. E. church, who has filled positions of importance in St. Louis, Mo., and in various parts of Illinois; Rev. J. H. Hughey and J. L. Hughey, who have been the pastors of some of our most important churches in Indiana and Illinois; the late Rev. T. S. Love, who was pastor of some of the most noted churches in Missouri; the Rev. P. H. Crider, who served as pastor of the most prominent churches in Iowa and other States. The Rev. J. T. Rushing, now a presiding elder of the M. E. Church, South was once a member of Piney Fork, as well as Mack Green of the Baptist church. Piney Fork is a name sacred to all Christians who have visited these annual camp-meetings and have seen the power of God so marvelously displayed. Thousands claim this as their spiritual birth place. It is sacred because of the fathers of the church who have preached there. It is sacred because of the hallowed associations of the past. The membership of Piney Fork church is some what depleted by the organization of other churches from their ranks and by an excessive emigration to the "far west," but noble men and women still stand by it and we hope it may live long to bless the world with the precious gospel of the kingdom of God.

It Takes Nerve

Everything depends upon your nerves. It is nerve force that causes the brain to direct the motion of your body; it is nerve force that causes your heart to pulsate, and send the blood through your veins; it is nerve force that causes your stomach to digest food, your kidneys to filter the blood, and the liver to secrete bile.

In fact, nerve force is the power that runs your body, so if you feel worn-out, irritable, nervous, cannot sleep, or eat well, have pain or misery anywhere, your nerves are weak, and your system run-down. To restore this vitality take Dr. Miles' Nerve which will strengthen and build up the nerves. You cannot be healthy without strong nerves.

For eighteen years Dr. Miles' Nerve and Anti-Pain Pills have been my close companions. Early in married life, while raising children, my nerves became all worn-out—could not sleep, had no appetite, indigestion very bad, and had such awful dizzy spells. Then I began using Dr. Miles' Nerve, and at once I began to improve, and soon found myself in perfect health.

GOOSEBERRY'S GOO HISS

For Aspirants to State Office, and They May Quit.

Frankfort, Ky.—There was a persistent rumor here that after the meeting of the democratic state executive committee next Saturday and the expense of the primary has been fixed, two or three candidates for state offices will withdraw and give as a reason that the assessment on each candidate is too burdensome. Who these candidates are could not be learned, but it was also stated that these same candidates would urge the committee to call the primary off, and if they failed in this would withdraw. The estimate of the cost of the primary are increasing, and now it is unofficially announced that it will be over $45,000. The political situation is likely to take on a different aspect after the meeting of the committee, and the question of who is the administration or who controls the state organization will be definitely settled. Just now there seems to be doubt in some quarters as to who may be termed the "administration candidates," and doubt as to which of the state officials are entitled to be known as "the administration," the latter term usually being employed in speaking of those in control of the democratic state organization.

SINGLE-HANDED

A Schoolgirl Fought a Mad Dog and Shot the Animal Dead.

Sandlick, Ky.—Single-handed Miss Sarah Blair fought a mad dog at her home in this county. The dog was standing at the gate when she started to enter and pushed through after her. She had not noticed that the animal was mad and started to drive it out of the yard, when it attacked her. She seized the animal by the back of the neck and held it so that it could not bite until she secured a revolver which was in the house. She then dragged the dog into the yard and pushing it from her shot it. The first shot had no effect on the dog, which kept trying to bite her, and she had to fire four times before she finally killed it. Miss Blair is a school-girl and has been highly complimented for her bravery.

ON THE TRACK

They Slept and a Fast Freight Ran Into Them.

Barboursville, Ky.—Near Grays, nine miles south of here, William Helton was instantly killed. A Sevier fatally injured and an unknown man slightly hurt at an early hour, a fast freight running into the party while they were asleep on the track. The accident occurred on a sharp curve, a few hundred feet from a tunnel, and the train, going 40 miles an hour, rounded the curve and ran into the sleeping men before they could be awakened. The three men had started from their homes to this city. All were of prominent families, and the accident has created wild interest.

Receiver Appointed.

Henderson, Ky.—An order was filed in the circuit court appointing the Ohio Valley Banking and Trust Co. as receiver of the Henderson City railway. The receiver is directed to take immediate possession of all the property of the company, its rights, franchises, assessments, assets and incomes, and will employ such labor as to properly operate the lines.

Claude Desha, Was Found Dead on the Porch of His Home.

Cynthiana, Ky.—Claude M. Desha, candidate for the democratic nomination for congress in the Ninth District, was found dead sitting on the hall steps at his home. It is supposed Mr. Desha was taken suddenly ill and started for the front porch to get air, and, being exhausted, fell and expired. At the coroner's inquest a verdict was rendered that Desha's death was caused by apoplexy. Mr. Desha had been identified with politics in Kentucky for 20 years and stumped the state in several democratic campaigns. He and the late Gov. Goebel were warm personal friends, and it was Mr. Desha's testimony in trial against Gov. Goebel for killing John Stanford that brought about an acquittal. Mr. Desha's wife died about five years ago, and he leaves a daughter about ten years of age. Claude Desha was a son of Gen. Lucius Desha and a grandson of Gov. Joseph Desha, and a brother of Judge Lucius Desha, of Newport, and brother-in-law of Hon. H. C. Duffy, of this county.

The Home.

W. C. Brann, the famous editor of the Leonoclast, wrote some fool things but nobody ever wrote a finer, truer thing than his tribute to the home, says the Petersburg Independent.

"The place to take the true measure of a man is not in the market place or the Amen corner, not in the forum or the field, but his own fireside. There he lays aside his mask and you may learn whether he's imp or angel, king or cur, hero or humbug. I care not what the world says of him—whether it crowns him with bays or pelts him with bad eggs; I care not a copper what his reputation or religion may be; if his babies dread his home coming and his better half swallows her heart every time she has to ask him for a five dollar bill, he's a fraud of the first water, even tho' he prays night and morn till he's black in the face and howls hallelujah till he shakes the eternal hills. But if his children rush to the front gate to greet him you can take it for granted that he's true gold and his home a heaven, and the humbug never got that near the great white throne of God. He may be a rankish atheist and a red flag anarchist, a Mormon and a mug-wump; he may buy votes in blocks of five and bet on the election, he may deal 'em from the bottom of the deck and drink beer till he can't tell a silver dollar from a circular saw, and still be an infinitely better man than the cowardly little humbug who's all sauvy in society but who makes his home a hell—who vents upon the hapless heads of wife and children an ill nature he would like to inflict upon his fellow men, but dares not. I can forgive much in the fellow mortal who would rather have the hate of the whole world than the contempt of his wife—he would rather call anger to the eyes of a king than fear to the face of a child."

During the hot weather of the summer months the first unnatural looseness of a child's bowels should have immediate attention to check the disease before it becomes serious. All that is necessary is a few doses of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhea Remedy, followed by a dose of castor oil to cleanse the system. Rev. M. O. Stockland, Pastor of the first M. E. church, Little Falls, Minn., writes: "We have used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhea Remedy for several years, and find it a very valuable remedy, especially for summer disorders in children. Sold by Woods & Orme the leading drugstore in western Kentucky."

Arrested in Cistern.

Deputy Sheriff R. B. Wallace was in the city Tuesday morning and said he had arrested people in many different ways but Tuesday morning was the first he had arrested a person in a cistern. He brought Clint Haynes into the city and lodged him in jail on a charge of gaming. Haynes was on the farm of Irvin Emerson south of the city near Riley Allen's digging a cistern. Officer Wallace had been in search of the negro and trailed him to this spot and there he was about to give it up until he took a peep down in the ground. Haynes admitted that the jig was up and asked to be drawn up so that he might surrender. The prisoner was lodged in jail.—Mayfield Messenger.

Summer Diarrhoea in Children.

During the hot weather of the summer months the first unnatural looseness of a child's bowels should have immediate attention to check the disease before it becomes serious. All that is necessary is a few doses of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhea Remedy, followed by a dose of castor oil to cleanse the system. Rev. M. O. Stockland, Pastor of the first M. Doing Without Flies.

One of our readers says: "Tell the housekeepers that a sure way to keep rid of flies is to keep everything absolutely clean, to leave no food sitting about in the house, no scraps scattered about the yard, no garbage can open no tubs of wash water, and no unwashed dishes. Flies get lonely where there is no filth or unwashed food. Air the rooms by open windows and doors through the night, where safe to leave them so, and where not, open them up very early in the morning, closing them before the sun gets much above the horizon. Leave the windows open a few inches at top and bottom, and open the transoms. As soon as possible after closing the openings, darken the rooms on the sunny side of the house and don't let in the light until they are in the shade."

Cures Hay Fever and Summer Cold.

A. J. Nusbaum, Batesville, Ind., writes: "Last year I suffered for 3 months with a summer cold so distressing that it interfered with my business. I had many of the symptoms of hay fever and a doctor's prescription did not fit my case, and I took several medicines which seemed to only aggravate my case. Fortunately I insisted upon having Foley's Honey of Tar, and it quickly cured me. My wife has since used Foley's Honey and Tar with success. Woods & Orme's."

To Cure a Cold in One Day

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. Druggists refund money if it fails to cure. E. W. Grove's signature is on each box. 25c.

Given Up to Die

R. Spigle, 1204 N. Virginia St. Evansville, Ind., writes: "For over five years I was troubled with kidney and bladder affections which caused me much pain and worry. I lost flesh and was all run down, and one year ago had to abandon work entirely. I had three of the best physicians, who done me no good and I was practically given up to die. Foley's Kidney cure was recommended and the first bottle gave me great relief. After taking the second bottle I was entirely cured."

SUNDAY SCHOOL TEACHERS' TRAINING CLASS

LESSON XLIII.

The lesson for Nov. 11th is "Jesus in Gethsemane."

DAILY Manna.

Sunday, Aug. 26, Agony in Gethsemane, Mt. 26:36-46; Mk. 14:32b-42; Lk. 22:40b-46.

Monday, Aug. 27, The betrayal and the arrest, Mt. 26:47-56a; Mk. 14:43-49; Lk. 22:47-53; Jno. 18:2-12.

Tuesday, Aug. 28, The disciples flee, Mt. 26:56b; Mk. 14:50.

Wednesday, Aug. 29, Young man with linen cloth, Mk. 14:50.

Thursday, Aug. 30, Christ taken before Annas, Jno. 18:13a.

Friday, Aug. 31, Caiaphas and Annas, Jno. 18:13b-14.

Saturday, Sept. 1, Peter and John following Christ, Mt. 26:58; Mk. 14:54; Lk. 22:54b; Jno. 18:45, 16.

HELPS TO STUDY.

One of the saddest pictures of all history is the agony of the Son of God amid the silent shades of Gethsemane. The very name of this garden of sadness has a plaintiveness and a pathos about it that moves our eyes to tears. Possibly at the hour of midnight or after you see Jesus and the eleven disciples stop on the slopes of Olivet near the entrance to Gethsemane. He leaves eight of them in a group while he goes yonder to pray. He takes the three that can enter into closest sympathy with him deeper in to the shades of his anguish. At last he leaves them, after telling them of the deep anguish of his soul and of the death-like struggle through which he was passing and commanding them to watch, he leaves them and goes "a stone's cast" from them to pray. I wish you could picture in your imagination the blessed Son of God, prostrate on his face, beneath the shades of those giant olive trees, pouring out his soul to God in prayer. And what is the burden of that prayer? The sins of the world were pressing upon him. It seemed that his humanity could not bear the strain much longer. He shrank from this intense suffering as any other human being would do. For an hour (Mt. 26:40) he poured out his soul to God in prayer. He then went back to his chosen three to get a little sympathy and touch of love and finds them sleeping. He gently chides Peter for not watching, then he turns it to practical account, and gives a universal principle why many of us do not watch. (Mt. 26:41e) He retired the second time and prayed, and returned to find his chosen three asleep again. For the third time he went into those silent shades and wrestled in agony for the cup to pass. In his exhausted physical condition the Father sent an angel to strengthen him. But with this new accretion of strength he agonized more earnestly until his body was covered with a dew of blood. When he came back the third time he found them asleep again. Luke alone gives us an insight into the condition of these sleeping apostles that enables us to throw the mantle of charity over their weakness. He says they were "sleeping for sorrow." Overcome by the strenuous life of the past week and the fearful apprehensions of losing their Lord and Master, they were simply overcome with grief and drowsiness.

Now they see the torch-light procession flitting through the olive trees and behold! Judas and his band is present. Oh! the baseness that can betray a friend with a token of affection. Appearing glad to see Jesus, he salutes him with the apparent token of love, but it is only the preconcerted sign of betrayal. Jesus calmly submits to the arrest. Peter draws his sword and cuts off the ear of the high priest. Christ touches the ear and heals it and bids Peter put up his sword. He tells Peter that more than twelve legions of angels could be immediately summoned, but that such would only interfere with the divine plan of salvation inasmuch as Christ must die for the sins of the world. Now they lead Christ away, while the disciples forsake him and flee in fulfillment of his predictions.

Mark gives the episode (14:51, 52) of the young man following Jesus, but when the young men of the temple band laid hold on him, he fled naked, leaving the cloth behind. Who he was is wrapped in deep obscurity, but he was certainly a sincere sympathizer with Jesus. Some think it was Mark himself.

They first led Jesus before Annas, the real Jewish high-priest, for a preliminary examination, and then before Caiaphas, the acting high-priest appointed by the Roman power.

A little later we find Peter and John following. John being acquainted with the high-priest, went into the hall where the Sanhedrin met. Peter stood without at the door. John went out and spoke to the doorkeeper and brought Peter in. Thus we leave Christ in the presence of his accusers, while the Sanhedrin was assembling and the scoffers were present to mock. John and Peter were also present.

THE TEACHER.

Methods in Teaching.

Approach to the lesson.—There must be a wise and tactful approach to the lesson. The teacher and pupil are face to face in the class, to study the lesson together. The scholar comes from his own world, in which he has for a week been surrounded by the influences of home, street, school and other "week-day forces." The teacher has now the great task to arouse his interest, call him out of his everyday world, and bring him in touch with the lesson. The teacher cannot take for granted that his pupil is thoughtful, interested in the lesson or prepared upon it. A wise approach implies

1 A strong conviction of the truth that he is teaching; not only that it is truth, but the truth which his pupil needs.

2 A definite plan in teaching. He must have determined in advance what he will teach, how he will open, how he will present, and how he will apply the lesson.

3 A strong will in teaching. His personality must dominate his scholars. They must be made to feel that the teacher has a purpose, and will execute it. Let the manner be gentle, but the will firm.

4 A personal interest in each scholar that he teaches. Let his strength of purpose be directed by love for his scholars; not a fictitious pretense of love, but a genuine affection, loving souls as the great Teacher loves them; willingly to make any sacrifice to win and save them. This love will give him power over them.

5 Tact and skill in opening the lesson. He will know when to open the lesson with a map of its field; when to begin with a word-picture of the scene of the lesson; when to commence with a story; when to call attention by some personal question. The tact to see opportunities grows by practice and is gained by prayer.

SEARCH QUESTIONS.

1 Why did Jesus divide his disciples into two groups? 2 Why did Christ pray? 3 In what sense did he suffer in Gethsemane? 4 Was it his divinity or his humanity that suffered? 5 What part of the last night's exercises did Judas miss? 6 Why was he so successful in finding Jesus? 7 Why did not Jesus let the disciples defend him? 8 Why did the disciples flee? 9 Who was the young man with the linen cloth, and what was his purpose? 10 Why was Jesus taken first before Annas? 11 What was the relation of Caiaphas to Annas in kinship and in official relation? 12 How widely is the Bible now used? 13 What are the agencies for printing and distributing the Bible? 14 How are these agencies supported? 15 In how many languages is the Bible now published? 16 How many copies are published annually? 17 What are some of the best Bibles for ordinary use?

Another Good Man Gone Wrong.

He neglected to take Foley's Kidney cure at the first signs of kidney trouble, hoping it would wear away, and he was soon a victim of Bright's Disease. There is danger in delay, but if Foley's Kidney cure is taken, at once the symptoms will disappear, the kidneys are strengthened and you are soon sound and well. A. R. Bass of Morgantown, Ind., had to get up ten or twelve times in the night and had a severe backache, and pains in the kidneys, and was cured by Foley's Kidney Cure. At Woods & Orme's.

About Steel Needles

It is said that steel needles were invented by the Spanish Moors. Before their introduction thorns and fish bones, the latter with a hole pierced for an eye, were in use. The first needles used in London were made by a Moor in the reign of Henry VIII., and in Queen Mary's day steel needles were sold in Cheap-side, says Home Chat. After this time the manufacture increased rapidly, many Germans going to England and establishing needle work in various places.

Don't Grumble

When your joints ache and you suffer from Rheumatism. Buy a bottle of Ballard's Snow Liniment and get instant relief. A positive cure for rheumatism, burns, cuts, contracted muscles, sore chest, etc. Mr. I. T. Bogy, a prominent merchant of Willow Point, Texas, says that he finds Ballard's Snow Liniment the best all round liniment ever discovered. At Woods & Orme's.

Opened By Mistake

A dispatch from Washington says that the postoffice department declares that any person found guilty of opening letters of others by mistake are to be held responsible by the postal officials. The guilty person is liable to a fine not exceeding $200. The postoffice department has ruled that mail be looked over before it is taken from the office, and that any letter put in your box by mistake must be returned before leaving the building under a penalty of $200 for failure to do so.

Unnecessary Expense.

Acute attacks of colic and diarrhea come on without warning, and quick relief must be obtained. There is no necessity of incurring the expense of a physician's services in such a case if Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy is at hand. A dose of this remedy will relieve the patient before a doctor could arrive. It has never been known to fail, even in the most severe and dangerous cases, and no family should be without it. For sale by Woods & Orme, the leading druggists in western Kentucky.

Cheap Rates to Chicago

The round trip from Evansville to Chicago is $5.00, tickets to be sold for all regular trains of Saturday, Aug. 25th, and are limited for return to Aug. 26, with privilege of extension to Aug. 31st by deposit of ticket at Chicago and payment of $2.00 additional. The E. & T. M. R. R., Evansville, Ind.

Few Delinquents

Out west no man dies content unless he has paid his newspaper subscription, for the editors have a way of squaring things in their obituary accounts. For instance an Indian Territory editor recently took occasion on the death of a reader to write this: "Deceased was a mild mannered man, with a mouth for whiskey. He came here at night with another man's wife and joined the church at the first opportunity. He owed us $7 on subscription.—Lyons N. Y. Review.

Why Fret and Worry

When your child has a severe cold? You need not fear pneumonia or other pulmonary diseases. Keep supplied with Ballard's Horehound Syrup, a positive cure for colds, coughs, whooping cough and bronchitis. Mrs. Hall of Sioux Falls, S. D., writes: "I have used your wonderful Ballard's Horehound Syrup on my children for five years. Its results have been wonderful." For sale by Woods & Orme.

One at a Time

Women do not mass as well as men do. They lose by aggregation. A street car full of women makes walking seem attractive. A regiment of men is pleasing. A regiment of women would be disturbing. So there are some flowers that, although individually charming, do not bunch well. Taken in large groups, women are objectionable. It is as individuals or in small squads that they are so incomparably interesting.—Life.

A Healing Gospel

The Rev. J. C. Warren, pastor of Sharon Baptist church, Bellair, Ga., says of Electric Bitters: "It's a god-send to mankind; it cured me of lame back, stiff joints, and complete physical collapse. I was so weak it took me an hour to walk half a mile. Two bottles of Electric Bitters have made me so strong I have walked 3 miles in fifty minutes. It's made a new man of me." Greatest remedy for weakness and all stomach, liver and kidney diseases. Sold under guarantee at Woods & Orme's.

$25,000 HUNG UP FOR STATE FAIR

Largest Prize List Ever Offered to Exhibitors.

Money Given By Several Breeding Associations—Low Railroad Rates and Good Races Every Day—Standard Breeds of Horses, Cattle, Sheep and Swine Provided For In Catalogue, Which May Be Had From Secretary J. B. Bowles.

The prize list for the Kentucky State Fair, which will be held at Louisville during the week of September 17-22, has been announced by Secretary J. B. Bowles. In premiums and purses something over $25,000 will be distributed during the week and the Kentucky farmers and stock raisers who enter their products will have something substantial to show for their victories as well as the glory of winning ribbons at Kentucky's Fair.

The Fair will be held under the management of the Board of Control appointed by the State Board of Agriculture, Immigration and Forestry. The Board of Control is composed of five members of this commission, together with four other men appointed by the commission. Great care was taken by this board in arranging the prize list in order to properly distribute among the various classifications the $25,000 appropriated by the state for the purpose and the $10,000 which has been added.

The largest amounts have of course been set aside for horses and cattle, and $5,500 in prize money will be given to the exhibitors of the harness and saddle horses. The owners of beef and dairy cattle will carry away with them $5,000 at the close of the Fair. For sheep $1,500 has been hung up, and the same amount will go to the exhibitors of swine. Fair jacks and mule stock, $600 in prizes is offered, while for poultry and pet stock the prize list runs to $800. For field seed, horticulture, tobacco, etc., $2,500 has been hung up. A large number of silver cups has been offered by public-spirited men for special classes. The National Hereford Association has given $200 to be added to the prize money in the class for Herefords. The American Oxford Down Record Association has offered $45 in special prizes for the best Oxford Down sheep. The American Saddle Horse Breeders' Association has offered a cup costing $100 for the finest horse registered with that association under two years of age. The American Short Horn Breeders' Association has added $895.

Three types will be judged in both the saddle and harness horse divisions. For the saddlers there will be rings for the fashionable walk, trot, canter type, the popular five-gaited horses and the strictly southern saddle horse technically known as the plantation saddler and popularly called nodding walkers. The latter class are judged solely upon the two gaits, the running walk and the canter. The five-gaited horses will, of course, be judged equally upon five distinct gaits, the walk, trot, canter, rack, and either running walk, slow pace or fox trot.

In the harness horse rings there will be three divisions, one for the flashy heavy harness horses, one for the roadsters and one for light harness horses. This latter type is one that is shown only in Kentucky fairs. The horses are not required to have either the excessive action of the high stepper nor the speed of the roadster.

In the beef cattle division prizes are offered for Shorthorns, Herefords, Aberdeen Angus and Polled Durhams. In this class a large number of rings have been reserved exclusively for Kentucky breeders. In dairy cattle the Jerseys, Holsteins and Ayrshires will be shown. In the sheep there will be Shropshires, Cotswolds, South Downs, American Merines, Oxford Downs, Hampshire Downs. For the hogs there are classes for Durocs, Jersey Whites, Poland Chinas, Chester Whites, Tamworths, Berkshires, and Hampshires, or other breeds. There will also be classes for pigs, mules, jacks and Angora goats.

In addition to the show there will be four days of racing program each day, one day of horse and dog racing, one day of horse and three running races. There will be one day for all races, 2:30 trot during the week, and for the trotting race, $600 each, and the prize for the trotting race, $250 each.

The fair will be made attractive by the presence of every standpoint. There will be concerts both during the day and evening by bands of national reputation. The Carnival Company will supply fifteen interesting and amusing shows, and there will be dozens of other attractions on the grounds.

The official catalogue can be had on application to J. B. Bowles, Secretary, Fourth and Main Sts., Louisville, Ky.

The Immodesty of the Peek-a-Boo Waist

By LALLA SELBINI,
French Actress.

IT IS far easier to give a definition of immodesty than of modesty. Immodesty can be typified by two words, in my estimation—the "peek-a-boo waist."

While I appear every afternoon and evening on a roof garden in a tight-fitting bathing suit, I must confess my sense of modesty would never go so far as to wear a peek-a-boo waist.

There is nothing more immodest than one of these suggestive, half-revealing, half-concealing garments that women have taken as a part of their costuming.

Some one has said that for me to criticize peek-a-boo waists is a little strange, since my appearance is so utterly unhampered by conventional clothing. Let me make one point clear; there is nothing more immodest about a woman's figure clothed in the tight-fitting bathing suit than in a statue. While a woman may appear on the stage in a costume which accentuates an act she is giving, it is a part of her stage profession. So long as it is not vulgar from an aesthetic sense, it cannot be vulgar at all. Real vulgarity or immodesty can only exist where the artistic sense is shocked, and to a pure mind with artistic instincts dominating it there cannot be susceptibility to im-modest suggestions.

The Venus of Medici is an exquisite figure. I am sure there are few people who would admit being shocked at this old Greek statue.
Yet how infinitely vulgar and suggestive she would be if some shocked lady would garb her in a peek-a-boo waist.

On the street I think women should wear street clothes. The peek-a-boo waist with its multitudinous holes, its glimpse of lingerie and colored ribbons is far more immodest than the so-called outrageously low-necked gown of the English society woman or the strip tights of the beautifully formed actress.

American women have gained a reputation of discretion as compared with French women, but I must say that we would never be guilty of going the lengths of displaying our persons as the apparently conventional American women do in the peek-a-boo waist.

The Married Man's Summer Rights

By MRS. CLARENCE BURNS,
President of the Little Mothers' Club, New York.

Is the summer exodus of wives fair to American husbands?

Is it equitable and just for the bread-winner of a family to be left desolate and alone in a dismantled house for three or four months in the summer while his wife rocks gayly back and forth with the piazza brigade of a summer hotel.

Does a married man deserve a home eight months in the year or twelve?

I consider it confirmed selfishness on the part of the American woman that she can bring herself to desert her faithful spouse each recurring summer season. It is my continual wonder that she can vege-tate on mountain heights and seaside sands while he, poor thing, swelters at home. But our women are as hopelessly selfish, as our men are proverbially kindhearted.

The American man is the only husband the world over that would consent to be turned into a pseud-widower one-quarter in every year.

But our men are proverbially tender-hearted and long-suffering.
They suffer their summer doom of widowhood without complaint.
Isn't it quite the usual thing?

I admit that Mr. Gayboy, writing eloquently of his utter boredom and sadness and having the time of his life incidentally, is legion. His moping consists of fetes on roof gardens and charming little suppers with the other women.

Isn't this the sort of thing a woman must expect who deliberately leaves her husband to his own devices three months at a stretch?

If a woman is ill or has sick children it is perfectly legitimate for her to go away within commuting distance of the city. And I suppose the mother of marriageable daughters is not to be censured for carrying them off to happy hunting-grounds. But all other women who wilfully desert are foolish.

Enduring Qualities of True Greatness

By PRESIDENT ARTHUR T. HADLEY, of Yale University.

Men are saved by what they do, not by what they profess. But it is not enough to get things done. They must be done right.

In law or in medicine, in business or in politics, you will find heroes that you wish to be like. A strong man of any kind will find friends and followers.
Be he prize fighter or fanatic, politician or millionaire, philosopher or Christian, there will be men who will choose him for a hero and stand or fall by the choice.

I believe that whenever it comes to a great crisis—political, industrial or moral—there is enough of the spirit of Christ in America to save us.

But though we have good ground for hope we are far short of having ground for complacent assurance. That part of our people which turns with avidity to sensational accounts of robbery and arson and murder is not far removed from the multitude that cried: "Not this man, but Barabbas!"

That part which looks to platform or press for arguments to its passions, and which seeks a leader who can give voice to the promptings of its own prejudices or emotions, has advanced little beyond the stage of those who clamored for the crucifixion.

The battles and the fortunes of a Marlborough and the very emphatic of a Louis—pale before the unjust constancy of purpose of William of Orange.

In the great drama of slavery and secession
we draw our largest inspiration not from the brilliant arguments of the orators nor the brilliant strategy of the generals, but from the patient endurance of two great, heavy-hearted men on opposite sides, unlike in all else but alike in unselfish devotion to principle as they understood it—Lee and Lincoln

Saving the Bison

New York City's Herd to Again Hear the Call of the Wild—Millions That Once Roamed Over the Western Plains.

FOUR years ago, in response to a resolution of the senate, Secretary of Agriculture Wilson submitted a report beginning with these words: "The American bison is on the verge of extermination. Scarcely a handful now remain of the millions which formerly roamed over the plains of the west." At that time only two small herds of wild buffalo were in existence in the United States, one of twenty-five individuals in the Yellowstone and one of ten in Lost park, Colorado. It looked as if the bison would soon be as extinct as the dinos-saur. His friends, in and out of congress, began to agitate in his behalf.
Their appeals have moved the heart of the great white father at Washington, though it took four years to do it, and he has adopted a herd of tame buffaloes, which he purposes to make wild.
This herd is the gift of the New York Zoological society. It consists of twenty animals in good condition. From its cramped quarters in Bronx park,
New York, it will be transferred, probably in October or November, to a range of twelve square miles in the Whitla forest and game preserve in southwestern Oklahoma. The new agricultural appropriation bill provided $15,000 for the fencing of this range, which will furnish good grazing ground, permanent water and shelter from storms. Here the buffaloes will enjoy the conditions under which their primitive ancestors thrived, and if their spirits have not been too much subdued by long captivity they should not be slow in hearing the call of the wild.
The agricultural department hopes to have better luck with the bison than it had with the burros recently sent to the Philippines, which, although shelter for them was provided, stayed out all night in a tropical storm and were drowned in their pasture. "The blamed fools didn't have sense enough to get in out of the rain," the official herdier reported.

It is computed that there were fully 10,000,000 buffaloes in North America before the white man came. The whole of this great shaggy population used to travel in a circular route through the

TWO BISON OF THE BRONX PARK HERD.

continent, all keeping more or less in touch with one another during this slow but continuous migratory existence. The Indians killed no more than were annually replaced by birth, and no game laws were needed to keep the bison census up to its high level. With the coming of the paleface, Indians and buffaloes alike melted away.

Apart from sentiment the buffalo is a valuable animal. Its meat is excellent, so closely resembling beef that it is difficult to detect the difference, and no scandal has yet placed it under suspicion. The buffalo's skin makes a fine overcoat and an unequalled carriage robe. Hides of the bull bison bring high prices for decorative purposes.

Private preservation and even domestication of the bison have been tried in New Hampshire with considerable success. The Blue Mountain Game preserve, founded by the late Austin Corbin, now has a herd of 100 buffaloes, and many calves have been sold and given away. From this herd some of the parents of the animals which the Bronx zoo has presented to the government. Buffaloes are wonderfully healthy animals, and their warm skins make it possible for them to withstand the most intense cold without discomfort. In New Hampshire they require no shelter in the dead of winter.

One New Hampshire breeder, who states that he has made a big profit out of his small herd, figures the cost of hay for two five years which a buffalo requires to reach maturity at $60.
A full grown buffalo is worth from $650 to $800, dead or alive. One man can easily take care of 200 buffaloes in the winter and have time left for other things. In the summer the animals take care of themselves. This New Hampshire breeder feels that if the animals are properly treated his herd increases as rapidly as a herd of ordinary cattle. He has broken two bull calves to the yoke, has trained them to draw a heavily loaded cart over the unsuitable roads of the Granite State and will exhibit them.

Newspaper Space

Space is to the newspaper man just what goods are to the merchant.
If the merchant gives his goods away he will not stay in business long. If the editor gets no pay for his space he will be a monstrous eurostoy to keep his bills paid. Some people don't know all that. They have no idea that anything about a newspaper outfit costs money. There is this truth many don't know. Stinginess with the newspaper doesn't pay at all. If you need it, and every business man does, use it and pay for it.
If you don't need it, let it alone.
Don't get the idea that the newspaper can afford to work for you merely to get your good will and keep you busy.—Bowling Green Courier.

Gotham's Idea of Politeness

He was an accomplished Southern gentleman of the dreaumer school, polite but impractical and as green a visitor as New York ever had, says the New York Press. Age about fifty-five. His eye caught two pretty women over-burdened with bundles standing on a corner of Fifth avenue waiting for a stage. In their excitement several bundles fell to the sidewalk and across the avenue he dashed to the rescue. As he stopped with a dignified "Allow me, ladies," and proceeded to pick up several packages, they began to scream for the police. A fat officer appeared and laid the heavy hand of the law upon the collar of the Southerner.
The women grabbed their property and fled, while policeman and prisoner walked toward the station. The Sergeant happened to be a sensible fellow, and after hearing the gentleman's statements he lectured him gently and let him go.

THE HUMAN BODY.

Composition of the Human Body in which Man's Spirit Abides.

The foundation of the human body is composed of 206 bones, covered with 522 voluntary muscles. The smaller blood vessels are so numerous as to be beyond the telling, but we have no fewer than about 1,000 arteries through which the blood is always flowing under the government of the heart.

The blood is composed of two constituents, termed by physiologists red and white corpuscles, numbering some thousands of millions.

Our house has something like 600 tiny telegraph wires, called nerves, connected with the brain and spinal cord, and these little wires are always throbbing with messages which they telegraph to the main office—the brain. Besides these there are the sympathetic wires, or nerves, numbered by thousands, which help the former.

The front of our house, the skin, has been measured up and found, if spread out, to cover fifteen square feet.

The ventilation scheme by which we get our fresh air is built of such fine porous stuff that, if spread out, it would be found to cover a stretch of land big enough to contain a fifteen roomed house. We refer to the lungs which have hundreds of millions of air cells.

To every square inch of the palm of the hand are 2,500 pores, while the number of sweat glands in the skin generally is 2,500,000. Their function is to deposit secretions upon the skin; hence the necessity of a daily tub to wash this stuff away, otherwise it clogs the sweat glands and prevents their proper working.

SUNSTROKE.

Properly Speaking, It Should Be Called Heat Apoplexy.

What is called "sunstroke," the effect of great heat, should be "heat apoplexy." The insomniac leads the multitude to suppose that death from it is caused through being struck down by exposure to a special malevolence of the sun's rays. This is not so, for patients are with equal frequency found in houses and barracks and tents and at night as well as day and, whether in sun or shade, are generally those whose health is debilitated by dissipation, disease and overfatigue, and the evidences from all parts of the world show that exposure to intense sun rays is less to be feared in dry countries than in countries where the temperature is much lower, but the atmosphere is moist, and perspiration is consequently retarded.

People suffer more from a temperature of 87 degrees F. at Brussels than at 122 degrees F. at Cairo, owing to the moist air of the first and the extreme dryness of the air in the latter city.

The inhabitants of the eastern coasts of the United States hear with amazement of temperatures from 118 to 123 degrees F. being tolerated in the dry regions of Arizona and South Colorado without harm and that the ordinary vocations of farm and factory are pursued without inconvenience. This is due to the cooling effect of rapid evaporation from the surface of the body, and hence the sun's malignancy is unknown.—London Mail.

Family Crests in England.

She had discovered the family crest and was having a die made for her letter paper.

"You'd have to pay $5 a year to use this crest on your stationery if you were English," said the stationer. "There is in England a tax of $5 a year on all who sport a crest."

"So few people are entitled to a crest, though," she said, "I shouldn't think such a tax would bring in the English government much money."

"The tax brings in $250,000 a year," replied the stationer. "There are 50,000 English with crests on their stationery."

The Marriage Knot.

A good deal is heard of the "marriage knot," but very few of us realize that the knot was ever anything more than a figure of speech. Among the Babylonians tying the knot was part of the marriage ceremony, says Home Chat. The priest took a thread from the garment of the bride and another from that of the bridegroom and tied them into a knot, which he gave to the bride, thus symbolizing the binding nature of the union, which now existed between herself and her husband.

Highland Deaths.

Pennant in his "Tour of Scotland" tells that on the death of a highlander, the corpse being stretched out on a board and covered with a coarse linen wrapper, the friends placed a wooden platter on the breast of the deceased containing a small quantity of salt and earth, separate and unmixed—the earth an emblem of the corruptible body, the salt an emblem of the immortal spirit.

The Speculator's Progress.

Graball—So you sent your boy around the globe for a little trip, eh? I heard he was dabbled in some stocks? Ritchie—Dabbling? He probably was—at first, but when I discovered his predicament he was floundering in them!—Puck.

A Man of Ability.

Tomson—Johnson has no ability of any kind, Jackson—No ability? Nonsense. Why, he can ask you for a loan in such a way that you thank your lucky stars for the opportunity to accommodate him.—London Tit-Bits.

Used to It.

Mrs. Knecker—Weren't you frightened when the bull bellowed at you on account of your new dress? Mrs. Bock—No, I was used to it.—London Tit-Bits.

To Young Men.

Young man you are wanted. From the street corners, from the saloons and playhouses, from the loiterers' rendezvous, from the idler's promenade, turn your steps in the pathway of noble aim and earnest work. There are prizes enough for every successful worker and crown enough for every honorable head that goes through the smoke of conflict to victory. But why do so few young men of early promise, whose hopes, purposes and resolves were as radiant as the colors of the rainbow, fall to distinguish themselves? The answer is obvious. They are not willing to devote themselves to the toilsome culture which is the price of success. Great men have ever been men of thought as well as men of action. As the magnificent river, rolling in the pride of its mighty waters, owes its greatness to the hidden spring of the mountain nook, so does the wide-sweeping influence of distinguished men date its origin from hours of privacy resolutely employed in efforts after self-development. The invisible spring of self culture is the source of every great achievement. Up, then, young man, and gird thyself for the work of selfcultivation. Onward, then, conscientious youth, raise thy standard and nerve thyself for goodness. If God has given to thee intellectual power awaken in that cause; never let it be said of thee, "he helped to swell the tide of sin by pouring his influence into its channel." If thou art feeble in mental strength, throw not that drop into a polluted current. Awaken, arise young man; assume that beautiful garb of virtue. It is difficult to be pure and holy. Put on thy strength then. Let Truth be the lady of thy love; defend her.—Mead County Messenger.

Our Best Man

The best man we have in our town for the general good of the town is the one you will always see in the front seat of the progressive band wagon. He is the first one to extend an open and warm hand to greet the stranger and welcome him to the best town in the state. He will resent an insult to the town as quickly as he would a slur at a member of his family. He very politely invites the chronic croaker to move on. He is ever ready to give his just proportion to every public enterprise. He talks up the town at home and abroad and believes it to be the best place on earth in which to live and desires to be buried here when he dies. Let us all try to be like this man for one year, and our little city will take on new life and improve as never before in its history.

EXCURSION RATES ON ALL RAILROADS FOR THE FAIR

Kentucky's Citizens Are Proud of Her Achievements.

Purses of $600 For the Daily Trotting Races—Live Stock Exhibits to Eclipse All Previous Fairs—Floral Hall a Thing of Beauty.

The work of classifying and arranging exhibits for the Kentucky State Fair, which will be held in Louisville during the week of September 17-22, is now well under way, and every indication points to the success of the Fair, which will bring an added glory to the state and present Kentucky's products to the world in a most attractive form.

The Fair will be held at Churchill Downs, the property of the Louisville Jockey Club, over whose classic course the most famous thoroughbreds that this country has ever known have raced. Many improvements are being wrought at this beautiful spot, and when the gates are thrown open on the first day of the Fair a bewildering scene of beauty will be presented to the eye. An immense glass building, to be known as Horticultural Hall, will be filled with the choicest selections from the florists' hot houses. Kentucky's products of tobacco, wheat and corn will be displayed in their best form. There will be hundreds of interesting and instructive exhibits for the farmers who have come to see and learn and exchange ideas with their neighbors. In the women's department there will be splendid specimens of needlework, and the housewife will find choice lots of jams and preserves which should delight the eye as well as the palate.

In front of the grandstand the kings and queens of the horse world will be on parade. There will be the fashionable five-gaited saddlers, while the walk, trot and canter horses with their docked tails will be in contrast to the more showy American saddlers with their long, beautiful, waving tails. In the cattle sheds will be splendid specimens of Herefords, Polled Durhams and other beef cattle, while in others there will be the sleek and mid-eyed Jerseys and other classes of dairy cattle. In another section of the ground will be quartered the hogs, and a splendid representation of every breed will be in the pens reserved for their use. In still another part will be the snow-fleeced sheep, the Southdowns, the Merinos, Shropshires and other standard breeds.

Farm Implements.

The agriculturist will be greatly interested in the big exhibits of farming implements and machinery. The latest inventions in machines will be there to be closely examined and their working explained by experts. The space for general exhibits is generously provided for on the grounds, and the managers have seen to it that the Fair will be a credit to the state and worthy of Kentucky, granted as the most favored by nature of the states of the Union. The patriotism of every son and daughter of Kentucky should be aroused by the State Fair. Though later than her sister states of Ohio, Indiana and Illinois in providing for this annual exhibition, the state government has now done its part, and it will be the pleasure and duty of every son of the commonwealth to build up the State Fair until it stands where it belongs at the head of all State Fairs, by sending products of field and farm, horse, cattle, and by coming himself to see what Kentucky has produced.

The state will be represented by the best Kentucky has to exhibit to the world, and the world will be there to see what the state is doing along the lines of progress. The State Fair is an educator, helping the farmer and stock breeder to improve his methods, and at the same time educate the world in what Kentucky has to offer. Kentucky has reason to be proud of its achievements, and the State Fair should be made a gala occasion. The railroads are offering greatly reduced rates from every part of Kentucky. The State Fair management has provided entertainment, amusement and instruction for every one who attends.

Full information in regard to the prize list for any department of the Fair can be had from J. B. Bowles, Secretary, at Fourth and Main streets, Louisville, Ky. Over $25,000 has been offered in purses and premiums, it being by far the largest amount that has ever been offered at a Kentucky State Fair. Four races will be on the program each afternoon, one for trotters or pacers and three for running horses. Purses in the running races will be $250 each and in the harness races $600 each. Scores of attractions have been provided, including fifteen shows of a prominent carnival company, all of which will be absolutely moral. Music will be furnished by a band of international prominence, and will play during the day, and will give

L. & N. ROAD TO BUILD NEW LINE to CHICAGO

Plan Similar to That of the Projected C., I. & E. and May be One and the Same

(Indianapolis News)

The announcement being made that the Louisville & Nashville railroad has about matured its plans to build from Owensboro, Ky., through Indianapolis to Chicago, through Indianapolis & Evansville Railroad company, to which a franchise for the use of the city streets was recently granted, is a subsidiary company to the L. & N. The plan of the L. & N. is to build a bridge across the Ohio river one mile below Owensboro and then build to Chicago through Indianapolis, entering the former city either by a new line or over the tracks of the Chicago, Cincinnati & Louisville. Because of their points of similarity, it is thought that the plans of the L. & N. and the C. I. & E. are one and the same plan.

OTHER PLANS

It is announced that the L. & N. will build from Adairville, on the Kentucky Tennessee line to Springfield, Tenn., making a straight line from Indianapolis to New Orleans. It is stated that the Monon route, which belonged to the L. & N. and the Southern jointly, has been sold to the reorganized C. H. & D. and that the Indianapolis-Chicago line will be built with the proceeds of this sale.

Several prospectors want a lease but Mr. Murthy has not given any.

Under Ground Freight Line.

Chicago, Aug. 15.—The freight bores of the Illinois Tunnel company will carry merchandise of all kinds in carload lots for the first time today. Announcement to this effect was made by officials of the company. This movement will mark the practical completion of the Illinois Tunnel company's system of underground freight railroads, the construction of which was begun five years ago and which has cost its owners about $30,000,000.

The company has now 45 miles of tunnel equipped with rails and overhead trolleys in the district bounded by Chicago avenue, the lake, Halstead street and Sixteenth street. Fifty powerful electric locomotives and several hundred cars are now ready for use, and the company has recently placed an order for 500 additional cars and 36 locomotives.

The company has finished connections with thirty buildings in the downtown district. Connections have already been made between the freight and warehouses of nine of the principal railroads. Others are under way.

EVICT YOUR MOSQUITOS

Draining New Jersey Swamps

Studying the Stegomyia

Picturesque-but a good breeding place for Mosquitos

LAD tidings of great joy" to the mosquito-ridden household and community! Excepting the salt water variety, every species of the biting pest can be exterminated by individual or local effort, with comparatively slight expense of time and money.

In the early days of mosquito study, C. O. Howard, now Chief Entomologist of the Federal Government, visited a family summering in the Catskill mountains. Mosquitoes were so numerous as to make life almost unbearable to any one venturing off the screened-in porch after twilight. Under the porch Mr. Howard found a rain water tank from which water was drawn off, as required, by means of a spigot at the bottom. The tank literally swarmed with mosquito larvae or "wigglers." Over the surface of the water the entomologist poured a pint of kerosene. This, forming in an unbroken film, the wigglers were divorced from their air supply and speedily died. There was no other body of still water anywhere near the house. The winged mosquito will not go near kerosene, and so the female no longer had a place in which to deposit her boat-shaped batch of eggs, three to four hundred in number. Result, before the year was a month older, the mosquito had perished practically from off the face of the earth, as far as this particular household was concerned. It was in the summer of 1901 that the question and methods of mosquito extermination first came prominently before the public. The mayor of the little city of Winchester, Va., at that time was N. C. Barton. Mr. Barton's fad was entomology. About the time that he had become deeply interested in the scientists' warfare on the mosquito the mayor was visited by an out-of-town friend. The latter complained loudly against the Winchester mosquitoes and exhibited his son as evidence of their bloodthirstiness. This determined the mayor to wage a little war on his own on the mosquitoes, that the name of Winchester would not be sullied by strangers' reports of the ferocity of the pest.

In the face of harsh newspaper criticism and sarcasm, he got the Council to pass an ordinance authorizing the application of kerosene in the city limits, wherever stagnant water would be found. When he saw to it that the city was thoroughly oiled. The result was so satisfactory to the mosquitoes—that the Council did not hesitate to amend the original ordinance by providing a penalty, to be imposed on any citizen who failed to apply kerosene in the necessary places on his property. An inspector was also authorized for the enforcement of the ordinance. Long before the summer was over Winchester had been practically freed from mosquitoes, and the citizens had taken down their nets and screens, a thing they had previously studiously refrained from doing until the advent of cold weather.

THE MOSQUITO A "HOME BODY."

The secret of success of individual or communal warfare on the mosquito lies in the scientifically proved fact that the mosquito invariably lives, buzzes and bites very near the place of its birth, unless, of course, it is carried away by a strong wind. (I should say, the place of her birth, for only the female sucks blood; the male is a strict vegetarian.) Therefore, in order to wage a successful war of extermination on the mosquito, it is necessary only to discover the breeding place or places—always standing or stagnant water—and to remove them entirely either by draining and then filling in the depressions, or, if that is impossible, or impracticable, by coating the surface of the water with kerosene.

Right here let it be known that the search for stagnant water must be thorough, if relief from mosquitoes is to be obtained. They breed in the most unsuspected places—in old tin cans, rain-filled hollows of trees well up from the ground, crochets of trees and hollow stumps, broken bottles, hidden by grass or topped stone walls as ornament; pitchers of the pitcher plant, closed sewers, the female entering and leaving through the perforated trap; flower vases in which the water is not changed daily, jars of water insulating the legs of refrigerators, roof leaders that are not properly graded.

Obvious breeding places are uncovered rain-water barrels, open cisterns and wells, the pits of outdoor water closets, ground depressions, unused household water receptacles, still water along the edges of streams, pools formed by underbrush, pools fed by springs, water along the edges of swamps and in the swamps, watering troughs infrequently used, and the pools formed underneath by drip-pings.

In brief, the varieties of mosquito that give the greatest trouble—barring the salt water genus—will breed anywhere in anything holding standing or stagnant water. These varieties are the culex pun-gens, or inland mosquito, the most common of all the two hundred odd species; the stegomyia, or yellow fever bearing mosquito, which is found pretty generally over the south; and the anopheles, or malaria bearing mosquito, which is the greater part of the Anopheles genus. It is the inland anopheles, and owing to this trait, it is offensive to the water mosquito. The species. This is also the more prolific. The anopheles true of the small pool of uncertainty to breed which are frequently taminated with scum. The eggs of covered wide depressions and spring-swamps, a favored breeding places. fed pools, unused receptacles about a So, also, unlike the culex pun-gens, the house, rarely enters a house.

TO APPLY KEROSENE

way to apply kerosene is with des, or a garden sprin- pot, after the open- broken oil film will bring death to all the these the female anopheles delights to de- posit her eggs.

Care should be taken to keep the oil film continuous. Kerosene tends to collect around water grass, logs and other foreign bodies in a pond, for example. Thus spaces of water surface more or less extensive are left without an oil covering, and the breeding of mosquitoes goes on apace; the time from egg to winged mosquito varies from twelve to twenty-five days, according to the species. By removing grasses and all other obstructions from a body of water an unbroken oil film can be obtained. The edges of streams, springs and ponds should also be kept clean, as the presence of logs and grass tends to standing water, in the shape of little pools, and in up, the larvæ will die in a as a result of the commo- stagnant water, from the eggs are laid until the are at hand, is absolutely no development of mosquitoes pupæ, then, in two or three mosquito—these are the mosquito development.

The cost of mosquito trifling of itself; and it is insignificant when compared with the benefits resulting therefrom. Sumners ago a certain Ma was laid low, almost to a malaria. The following summer was spent in draining place of the anopheles, and of malaria was reported all presence of mosquitoes many a region from de otherwise would probably or at least given it an un- tion; while, conversely, have prospered because of, for, freedom from the pest it mean to Havana, New Panama Canal zone, when was exterminated? And in one portion of Staten Island, for its mosquitoes, has been of being practically pest. Who can prophesy new state of things will of thousands of home buy New York?

Whatever the variety of once has pointed out a su- minate it. And science proved it, too, that the rid of one hundred and rieties is for each indi- munity to wage war on bothering him and it in and oiling. The mosquito-lass get an option on the Conqueror mine for anything like a reasonable price?"

"Well, it hasn't been for sale," said I, dully, "but if any one can buy it at a fair figure, I suppose I am he. If the cash were coming to pay for it—"

"Maybe here's your chance," said Oshkosh, and, taking up a letter, passed it over to me; then he turned to write, digging away with his pen at a wonderful rate on something that was evidently juicy to him.

"The letter was from a capitalist who was at the head of a syndicate that was offering to buy developed mining property. It was evident that they meant business and had millions back of them."

"While I was reading and Oshkosh was still writing like fury, a clerk slipped in with a basket containing the usual grist of papers that daily passes through a bank, all made up ready to sign and mail, and on the top of the heap was the Sultan's Draft. I gave you my word of honor, De, I grew sick again at sight of it."

"The old man finished with a final skate across the paper as the clerk passed out."

"Well, James, son, what do you think of it?" he said, wheeling around to me. "I'm sure the Conqueror could be sold if the price isn't out of sight. If you can swing that deal, my boy, you can snap your fingers at the whole pack of your deals, and the Sultan's Draft, too. Your commissions on the sale would amount to five times the sum of your present needs. Do you think you can make it go through in six weeks? That's about the limit of time I'm giving to the return of this hoax."

"Oh, my God! We can't count on that in such a desperate emergency as this!" I cried, in a panic.

"Keep cool, James! Keep cool. Sit upon the safety valve and throw in your hacon and coal oil. You must beat in the race with some of your plans, and this offers another very good opportunity to win out. Now look here," Oshkosh continued, taking the paper he had just been working over, "that draft has to have something to go with it, and this is what I have made; but if any soul on earth can tell what it is, it's more than I can do. It did not contain a word to make it intelligible. But it was beautiful to look at. The pen strokes were decorative as Chinese characters, and seemingly as precise as German script. Any one might have told me it was Sanscrit, Runic, or Cuneiform, or Aztec or Choctaw, and I would have believed it—or, for that matter, a design for an Oriental rug or an Arabian mural decoration; it would have been all the same to me. Why, De, what was intended to convey the idea of a signature and ended in that last almighty skate of Oshkosh's, beat Spinner's and was a masterpiece finer than that of the Sultan himself that they inlay in mother-of-pearl on the tops of tabourets. Heaven help the British Museum if it ever meets with that dummy document of Oshkosh's; savants will waste their lives trying to decipher it."

"Well, that worthless thing the old man fastened with a big bank pin to that worthless draft, and addressed it to his correspondent here in Chicago."

"There you are, James, my boy; his it good-by, but be ready to greet it with amount on demand when it comes back."

"Now go, long about your business," he said, "I do go about my business—you can bank on that. I fairly tore up the earth to be ready to meet the return of that draft. Why, I couldn't think of that infernal draft that I didn't imagine the books it went through and the stir it must have made in some of them. Of the booming young clerks that handled it and reverently, too, good Lord!—and of the old-timers they appealed to, per-sonally and were afraid to take it seriously and afraid to take it as a joke."

"None of my schemes positively failed, but they tantalized me with numberless delays that are into my eyes like lye. Still the return of the draft was providentially delayed. Then, when each day dawned with the dread that it would bring the crack of doom, the con-queror of the Conqueror mine dealt me a resounding final settlement of the job that would give me money to burn by the neck and neck with the return of this dire-levil draft that would bring ruin and disgrace."

"At last a bank messenger came down to the works to tell me Oshkosh wanted to see me immediately. It was a thought-provoking line for the old man to do—I knew my condition—why, I thought suicide as I went up town!"

"Old Oshkosh was waiting for me in his private office, looking as usual, fastidiously and kindly serious. But the door had barely closed on us when he flopped me and beat and pounded me on the back, and shouted an undertone of some good news into my ear; I couldn't make out what."

"Look, look, James, my boy!" he cried, snatching up a bit of paper. "The Sultan's Draft, the Sultan's Draft!"

"The engraved voucher swam before my eyes, but I giddily saw enough. James Hazleton—fifteen thousand dollars—the Sultan's Draft had been paid."

"Well, what do you think of that?" he marveled De Loss.

"From that on it seemed that everything came my way," resumed Hazleton. "More than a hundred thousand came pouring in on me in the next few weeks. But Raudebaugh and I never tired speculating on the reason the Sultan honored the draft. I spent a good deal of time to clear up the mystery. Of course the Sultime Porte received it through the usual channels, London and Paris, but when the Yildiz closed its gates upon it its story was lost. Members of the Young Turk party, scattered across the continent of Europe, all against the Ottoman administration, tried to help me, but without success. Meantime it was Oshkosh's hieroglyph that was the key. At all events, the draft was paid and no bother taken with consular or diplomatic go-betweens."

"The fifteen thousand dollars I belong to me, yet how could it be turned? As the years passed, and it grew, with interest, I thought of using it as conscience money for a few charities. I was still looking for a place to put the despot's money where it would do the most good when the Armenian massacres gave me an ideal chance."

"I'd like to have seen Oshkosh's ment," said the lawyer, as the two contentedly lit their cigars with the match.

MINNA SCHATT CRAWFORD.

The style and character of a woman's clothes have come to such importance in life that she is a brave woman indeed who dares ignore the cult of fashion and defies criticism in garments that are passé. A constant respect for the changing fashions is no longer regarded as an evidence of shallowness or vanity. Quite the contrary; it serves rather to emphasize a progressive spirit, a mind alert, coupled with cleverly busy fingers.

The woman who does her own sewing has much the advantage of her sisters who declare they "hate the sight of a needle." With the aid of a really good paper pattern she cannot only have prettier frocks than the average, but can remodel her last year's dresses and bring them properly up to date.

The dainty little evening dress here pictured is so effective and yet so simple of construction that any woman who knows enough of sewing to hem a pocket handkerchief can follow the easy instructions printed on the pattern and put it together. It is a charming model for any of the summer fabrics, such as organdie, swiss, foulard, dimity or challie. The pretty bodice can be made with or without a lining. The skirt is a nipped model and very simply put together. The waist pattern 1043 is cut in sizes 32, 34, 36 and 38 inches bust measure. The skirt pattern No. 2090 is cut in sizes 22, 24, 26 and 28 inches waist measure.

Whether used for separate skirt or part of a costume, no distinct style in a long time has approached the vogue of the modified circular skirt with full and back gores laid in inverted pleat to give the fashionable and becoming pleated effect. The model here shown is cut in six gores, which makes it easy to handle and does away with all tendency to sag. It is in round length and perforated for walking length. Pattern 2095 is cut in sizes 22, 24, 26, 28 and 30 inches waist measure.

To secure any of these beautiful styles state number and size of pattern desired and enclose fifteen cents for each pattern wanted. Address all communications to Accomplishments That Are Attractive to Men. A Source of Income.

To learn she soon accomplishes. We owe to society something in the way of entertainment for what it offers us. We are enabled to give pleasure and prove of benefit in numberless ways if possessed of some accomplishment, and last of all, but by no means least important of all, the accomplishment learned to while away idle hours frequently proves a means of livelihood in times of misfortune.

(The wise girl) will find out what accomplishment she is best adapted for, and then really endeavors to shine in that. She will make it an unending source of pleasure to others and win many friends through it, and when the hour comes that finds her alone in the world and without means, she has a source of income ready to hand.

The majority of girls so situated imagine that they are not sufficiently proficient to make use of their accomplishments. They lack the courage to make the most of a little knowledge, and endeavor to add to it.

The girl who can play or sing immediately casts about in her mind for probable pupils. These may not readily materialize, but in the meantime numberless women are only too glad to have some pleasant girl help entertain their friends with music; accompanists are at a premium, and for singers and players upon stringed instruments benevolent institutions and certain hospitals are only too glad to pay some one to play for inmates of such places when music cannot be had free, and there are schools without number, both private and public, which need a pianist, not as a teacher, but to accompany the singing of the pupils, their marches and many of their physical exercises. The girl who can play just a little has a wide field in which to earn a living.

Singers and players upon stringed instruments have much the same field, except that theirs is more restricted, and the singer is ever in demand to help with jolly topical songs at small entertainments, and to sing at funerals. This last is very profitable.

Then there is the girl who learns just a little painting and drawing. She, too, feels hopeless about getting enough pupils to support herself if suddenly left to do so without any preparation for such a task. Few of these girls know that original designs of very simple kinds are profitably sold to manufacturers of fancy articles, decorative embroideries and lace houses. There is always a large demand for original menu cards, dinner, tea and luncheon favors, cotillion favors, entertainments where decorated cards can be used for special purposes, the cards being appropriately decorated to suit the occasion; lamp and candle shades of all kinds, fancy boxes for candy, stationery and an infinite variety of other things to say nothing of the vast variety of silk and satin articles decorated with painting, the screens and panels and fancy bits of useful prettiness which may be so easily decorated with brush or pen.

China painting offers a large field for artists in that branch of painting, and almost every millinery and dressmaking establishment finds use for a girl who can paint flower decorations upon gowns and their accessories. Designing for wall papers, carpets and the like requires a special education, which is not hard to get, but the amateur artist will be more successful if she does the simpler forms of decorative work which require originality of design and harmony of color rather than correctness of drawing or carefulness of execution.

A girl who has no gift for singing, playing or painting may always learn the art of entertaining, than which few, if any feminine accomplishments, are more appreciated. We all love the girl who has a charming manner; who is ever ready with a clever or amusing story, and has the tact of knowing just when to tell it; who can recite something to suit our every mood and who has the knack of getting congenial spirits into conversation. Such a girl is ever in demand in society, and if she is ever thrown upon her own resources to make a living she can make capital of her art of entertaining, and very few will ever know that she is being paid for her accomplishment of aiding some hostess to a successful evening.

Such a girl can also do any number of things. As a social engineer, entertainments of various kinds for charitable and benevolent purposes, for club affairs and the like. Women on committees are only too thankful to employ the services of one who can attend to matters that vex the souls of most people and make things run smoothly to a successful conclusion.

The girl who has learned to read well is possessed of a rare and delightful accomplishment. Almost every one loves to be read to, and aside from the good that can be done through this accomplishment a girl who reads well can always get a number of women to employ her services for certain hours in the day or evening, and may also teach a class in the graceful art of reading entertainingly.

The woman who is an accomplished housekeeper, seldom realizes that she is just the one thing that numerous households covet, and that her life may lie in easy places if she only turns her accomplishment to account in the right channels.

Once a young doctor went about advising all his patients to do embroidery. "Why don't you learn to embroider," said he. "It is just the thing you require to occupy your mind without overtaxing it, and it does not require a great effort. It is much better for you than exciting yourself, reading, or sitting about brooding over your ill health."

Presently all the women he attended were industriously making pink silk roses on centerpieces. That struck him as being the triumph of embroidery. Then some of them began to inquire in the doctor's reasons for advising embroidery. "Crochet is twice as easy," said they, "and not half as fatiguing." It was discovered that the doctor he just married a charming young thing who did the loveliest embroidery imaginable, and that pink roses on center piece were her speciality.

If the man of science can be tamed in a skein of silk or a strand of crochet, worsted, men of all sorts become enthralled by the girl who can sing topical songs in a sympathetic manner. The hearts are instantly relieved of care as they begin to fancy how jolly life would be at the side of a charming girl who could sing a coon song whose lyrics would dispel the blues from the most purpled mortal.

Not one man in ten thousand is prejudiced against the fascinations of the girl who can play such music as he can understand and enjoy. Even the man who can and does understand the triumph of the composer rendered by a sympathetic hand, likes to hear simple melodies played by some girl who enters into the spirit of them. He likes to rest mind and body and let his spirit soar upon the wings of music into a world of sentiment and sweet sound.

The girl who entertains well, however if she is really sympathetic in spirit, captivates all hearts. Every man loves to be entertained, and the woman who understands how to do this with the least apparent effort is quite as popular as the singer and she who can discourse divinely upon instruments both keyed and stringed.

Now what do you think of that offer?"

CHARLES E. ELLIS

Easily Satisfied

A New York man, the head of a company working phosphate fields in the South, tells the following in connection with the phosphate boom in Florida some years ago.

The New Yorker's company was desirous of obtaining a tract of land in a section of Florida inhabited by easy-going people, and offered the owner ten thousand dollars. It was afterward learned that the owner had some time before the company came to the place endeavored to sell the land for the offered dollars.

The owner's demands at once accepted. When smilingly suggesting cash in hand, the agent would be to lead that the best course was taking in cash the money in the bank, needs might call for sum present.

After some palaver, the owner known his wish to have the native made acres with a house. A farm of fifty acres whole was only a few hours' ride from the agent's office.

"What else?" asked the agent.

"Kin I have a hoss, saddle and bridle?"

"Certainly."

"And a rifle?"

"Yes."

"And some provisions?"

"Yes."

Here the native stopped. His eyes kept widening in wonder. He could not at the moment think of nothing more.

"What else do you want?" resumed the agent.

"Sixty dollars for the old woman to buy things for herself and the kids," answered the owner, preparing to walk away.

"Anything else?"

"Is there more yet?"

"Yes."

"Well, give me a plug of tobacco and set me down where the fish bite all the time you kin have the rest."

Happy Thoughts.

There's no argument equal to a happy smile.

The black sheep in every family is once the most petted lamb.

Did you ever notice that the situation of a man's life depends on whether it is coming or going?

People who can "turn their hands to anything" seldom turn up trumps in the game of life.

Consider the lowly postage stamps and the advice of Josh Billings, and learn the secret of success. It sticks to one until it gets there.

The Photograph Handkerchief.

Now it is the photograph handkerchief. Already some very pretty collections have been made, and besides, scores of pretty articles of house decoration have been constructed out of them. The photograph handkerchief lends itself to a variety of uses.

As its name implies, it is a photograph on a handkerchief. Although for some little time heads have been reproduced on satin cushion covers for screens and the like, not until now has it been possible to go into a photograph gallery and have one's picture taken on a handkerchief.

The uses to which these handkerchiefs may be put are many, not the least interesting of which is to make the cover of a sofa or divan cushion in one's own room of squares of linen on which the likenesses of one's best friends appear. Or there may be a series of poses of just one person.

Quite a bit of sentiment attaches to the fad. The exchange of handkerchiefs, as well as the making of collections of them, is likely to become as popular as collecting of postal cards.

Willia. Butting Property.

I claimed a assessing a go property in the legal se. was no 'real and should not be assessed the assessors, a very pleasant fad of the obligingly said I could to upsd man him, and together we would go to rules and regulations and see what it be done.

"We looked over the rules, and find the old man asked:

"Does you seek run loose on roads?"

"Well, sometimes," said, wonder what the penalty was for that dread offence.

"Does he btt?" again quied the man.

"Yes, I answered, 'he but'.

"Well," said the old man looking me, "this rule says—tax all at cert property running and about on highway. I don't see how I do anything for you Good-day, sir"
